More Tolkien adventures

The Lord of the Rings, J.R.R. Tolkien's cult best-seller, is being turned into three computer adventures by Melbourne House, following its success with The Hobbit.

Published by David Milgrom under the aegis in the back of a book of excellent material, Sherlock, based on the Victorian detective, and Hemmerell, a career and social climber.

Verdicts of both for the BBC Spectrum are that only the month and are to be available for the Commodore 64 in October (Sherlock costs £14.95 and Hemmerell is £19.95). The Solo Hunt, a graphic adventure set in Angkor, will be available for the Commodore 64 in the form of a card.

BT games at £2.50

The big boys have entered in on the software market. British Telecom has announced that it will be branching out into software and is setting up Firebird as its software label.

And the big check is that BT games will be sold at £2.50. Looking off with a range of 20 titles, the cassette packs feature screen shots to give the customer a clear idea of each game.

Richard Wooper of BT said: "Firebird games will offer the same quality as some products coming next to match. You can now judge a game by its cover. Firebird software is setting new standards."

To begin with, Firebird will be launching games for the BBC, C64 64, Spectrum and VIC-20. The initial 20 games will be part of the Firebird Silver range and later a series of "premium range" programs known as the Firebird Gold range will be released, at a higher price.

Firebird is buying in its software under contract, rather than employing its house programmers. British Telecom has reviewed 1,500 programs and is apparently rejecting the Rings would be published next year in three volumes, each with a book. And it said the company was talking to other publishers about more major titles.

Accornoff has launched what a laptop will become a college class, for BBC and Electron users, puts the player on command of a specialty for intergalactic trading and fighting off pirates.

The company is putting £150,000 worth of advertising behind its 30 new titles, including home education, a medical adviser and a "sympathetic" dancing program.

Accornoff's managing director, David Johnson-Davies, said he believed software distribution would no longer tolerate unprofessional products and this would lead to a thorough shake-out among home software houses.

games which include air, damage or killing one, fury ensues.

BT will be using established distribution companies and dealers. Freivald's commitment to the home computer market. The Portland Silver range will be launched in October, and advertising begins on October 23.

A spokesman for British Telecom said: "We're pricing our games at £2.99 because that's what we think they're worth. We are among at the lower end of the market but our games aren't rubbish, they're based on good ideas, pretty decent software."

He went on: "If you look around at the games available, you'll see that prices range from £3 to £11. But that's not a reflection of what the games are actually worth. That's why we're focusing more effort on the packaging. The intention is that if the graphics are good, there is potential the game is good as well."

British Telecom will be giving the printer value for money. We're committed to the market and we're here to stay. We don't see software as a dead-end market — here for 18 months and then gone for good. Home computers are here to stay and the market is large."

Highways of the new releases are arcade games, with one graphics adventure and a word-processor game completing the line-up. Educational software and utilities are also scheduled for release in the Portland Silver range will be added to the Portland Silver range every two months.

The pricing of BT's games and the commercial weight behind the operation are sure to put the cat among the pigeons. A number of software houses have already voiced their concern.

Mastertronic is the company which was first on the market with on-price software. Douglas Frank Hayman commented on BT's entrance to the software market: "I'm delighted they're taking a realistic approach to the market and I'm sure they won't pose any threat to us."

He continued: "We think that there is a right price for software, £1.99, and we will be games at that price. We also realise that there is a market for better quality software at a higher price, and we have now moved into that market by taking over Corelli, and establishing Mastertronic. We welcome the competition from British Telecom."

Solo goes German

Solo has announced plans to open a new office in Hamburg, West Germany. The move is part of an expansion into the European market. All educational and mail business software will be translated into German, as well as manuals and instructions.

Managing director Nick Bentley said: "We have always accepted that Germany is the largest market for Sharp in Europe but there is a shortage of well-motivated software."

Solo has always worked closely with Sharp (UK) in Manchester and says that it seemed a natural extension to talk to Sharp Europe about a similar working relationship.

In order to reduce upon transportation costs, Solo decided to open a new office out there.

Go for it!

Now that the long winter evenings will be drawing to a close, it's time to start watching American Football on TV again. Or otherwise, you could always play it at the comfort of your own home.

In the Mini Games range, Acorn has released American Football for the Spectrum or Commodore 64, and is backing it with TV advertising on Channel 4's Sunday afternoon American Football slot.

Football American style is a complicated game of strategy which involves clever tactics. In the Mini Games version you can either compete with a friend or your computer. Don't worry if you don't know how to play; included in the price — £9.99 — is a guide which should help you out. Or if you're really stuck, go to the help page.

Also from Mini Games: Clock of Death, a horror adventure. Price £7.99 for the Spectrum, Commodore 64 and Atari.

Ready to go, kids

CGL Christmas plans

CGL is all set to start a TV advertising campaign in the run-up to Christmas. Games and Watch will be promoted with a 30-second commercial running on TV-AM for the three months before Christmas. Extra spots will be booked for the half-term and Christmas holidays.

Children's games will also feature CGL ads and the Waco profile will be promoted in computer magazines. Mastertronic director David Morris said: "We're all set for a very exciting period. Many new products have been added to our range."

New life for Corelli

Mastertronic, famous for on-price software, has set up a new company, M4gamevite, incorporating the titles of the previous adventure game company Corelli.

Corelli staff Roy Correll, Steven Galloway and Stephen

Erk are concentrating their efforts on the release of their Third Contract Indiana-Volcano. Damages has been upgraded to include graphics and, together with Black Crystal and Wrath of Magic, is being converted for other machines.

Alan Morris, director of Mastertronic, explained that Mastertronic is eager to develop all ranges of adventure games. "We'd be pleased to hear from aspiring software writers or any software companies seeking assistance in launching a high quality game," he said.

The joke's on you

Here it is — the World's First Computer Joke Book. Brought to you by Computerworld, it's a monster which contains 500 jokes including a laugh routine at the end of each page. Printed as the story ends, it's a warning. The program can seriously damage your parents' health, while another says goodbye. Not to be sold to anyone over 16 unless accompanied by a minor.

HCW survey: your last chance

It's not too late to win a prize and give us your ideas

IF YOU missed reading us the survey form last week, don't worry, because we're giving you another chance to get your views in.

The purpose of our survey is very simple. We want to know all about our readers and what they expect from us. The readers of the first 25 questionnaire posted get a full month's readers' software or books in prize.

All you have to do is fill in the form on this page. Just tell us who you are, what sort of computer you own and so on. There's also a section about HCW in which you can give your views on the magazine. Write down what your favourite HCW features are. It could be the reviews, the charts or the listings. Anything, it's already up to you.

We also need to know if there's anything that you dislike about HCW, or perhaps a feature that you like which needs improvement. Maybe you think there aren't enough listings for your particular needs — tell us, because that's the sort of information we want to find out. There's also a section where you can include your recommendations for making HCW even better.

From all the information we'll be able to discover what we're doing right (and wrong) and so we'll know what improvements to make in the pages of your magazine.

So what are you waiting for? Simply fill in the form, mark your envelope HCW Survey and post it off in time to reach us by first post on Friday October 12th 1984. Remember that HCW is your magazine and we won't know what you think of it unless you tell us positively.

How many times have you loaned out your own software, only to find your friend can't find it? This program from Ron Luxton could make your life easier

Screen dump

Software book collectors know as Libris — Latin for "From the library of" — bookplates inside their books, as a mark of ownership and to ensure their dear possessions are returned when they lend them to friends.

Now in Libris is a program to add a distinctive "computerplate" to the front of your own Spectrum programs, using the computer's SCREEN facility.

It can be personalised each time by adding your name, brief address or program title. After typing in the program, checking for errors and SAVING to tape, press RUN. On completion of the drawing, you will be offered an hour of time discretion each to open your name or any message.

If you want any hint to be respect, there just press ENTER. Next, simply load the recorder with a fresh tape, enter "SAVE "in Libris" SCREEN" and save the screen image.

To incorporate the SCREEN drawing into your new program, start with the following three lines:

00 LOAD "in Libris"
01 SCREEN
02 BORDER 0 PRINT AT 0,
  "Press any key to start"
PAUSE 0
03 RUN
04

rest of program.

Now SAVE a using "SAVE "new program" LINE 10".

Do not record the tape, but remove it from the recorder. Load NEW and re-load the "in Libris" SCREEN program. Replace the "new program" recording, SAVE the SCREEN drawing using "SAVE "in Libris" SCREEN".

Now, when your new program tape is loaded, it will automatically load your in Libris bookplate to the screen, and any time you press a key is processed and the program continues.

From now on, your friends may forget to return your programs, but they will not forget you.

We're the duplicators that won't treat you like the next customer

Yes, we're experts in the business of data duplication, both in disc and cassette format. But that doesn't mean we treat our customers like duplicates too! What Micro Byte also does extremely well is to consider the special needs of each individual customer.

For a short run or full scale production, Micro Byte has the capacity (over 120,000 cassettes and 18,000 discs a week in fact) to give you the quality results you're looking for — time and time again.

With years of experience in this field and backed by the most efficient high-tech equipment, you can rely on us to deliver the goods within a speedy 7-10 working days. Both our duplicating service and our full printing and packaging service are so competitively priced, they won't give you any recurring nightmares!

Now you know a bit about us, perhaps you'd like to make yourself our next customer and feel the benefits of our special personal service.

Douglas Borchert will be pleased to answer any individual requirements.

Your guide to computer crime?

U.S. SCENE

Taking the theme from Wargames to an Exposé magazine, how would you like to subscribe to a magazine featuring articles such as "Sequence to determine the current state of Soviet nuclear readiness" or — if your funds are low — perhaps you would be more interested in an article entitled "Transforming North from deep-sea mine arsenal to low-velocity land arsenal."

A casual glance at the new publication, Computer Reader's News, makes it seem like the strategic hacker's guide to computer readiness and environmental readiness. In reality, the magazine is designed to be the computer world's equivalent to Time magazine. Published and written by Don Blument, many of the items in the magazine were actually inspired by previous news stories from various publications about computer crime; was your people prone to trouble for doing things that adults allowed them to do in the first place. The first issue will be out later this year.

Additionally, Reader probably got a lot of (negative) exposure from the computers he has owned or owned twice, such as the Times/Sunday, the Columbia 1, the TI-99, and the best one of all, an IBM 5155 that cost him roughly $14,000 about four years ago and which he cannot get to run due to software problems. I suppose if I had problems like that, I could make good money as well.

If you are interested in an issue or two, for more details you can write to Computer Reader's News, c/o Perennia Press, 450 E. Main Rd., San Mateo, Calif. 94401, (415) 357-8500. It should be worth a few dollars.

If you have a modem and are not hesitant to its use at its limits, the Atlantic, you may be interested in this new service. In fact, if you are having trouble locating the right software, the expense of the call may be offset by the time and information you might save by using this service.

I am talking about Software Library. Created by a company called Searchnet, this online database resembles a library card catalogue in the way it is used, and is available for no charge. Software vendors and manufacturers support the system, which is why there is no charge to users.

Searchnet offers the service in the hope of simplifying the software selection process, and to help consumers obtain up to date information on products and their availability. Searchnet, aside to them, does not sell any of the products advertised in the library; they are merely offering a service. To be placed on line at a later date in an electronic mail service which will allow users access to read comments on products directly to the vendors.

Also in the works is a New Software Products file, to be made separately available to users only interested in news releases.

So, all you need to access this service is a computer having communications capabilities and some motivation. Oh, and one more thing — you'll also need their phone number. Here it is, along with their address, just in case you want more information prior to dialing. Searchnet Corp., 241 U.S. Highway 1, North Palm Beach, FL 33408, (708) 643-2900.

Sprite Routines Sord MS £5.95

Hanwell, 3 Greenfield Lane,
Cannock, Worcs., CW46 0DS.
Sales C&D 2086

Every MS owner knows that BASIC-1 isn't the BASIC comprehensive language when it comes to speed handling. In fact, it is positively lacking in any command of this package's attempt to fill the gap left in BASIC-1 by providing a set of powerful assembly-driven speed routines.

It consists of five routines. One — which controls the movement during the games, OR — which opens clear instructions, three — which screen sprites, four — which allows you to join sprites, and five — which allows you to move sprites on a variety of axes.

The first four commands are self-explanatory. The fifth is the most powerful and useful command in the package. Not only does it allow you to move sprites to a particular position, the great thing about this command is that because it is interrupt-driven, once you use a sprite to move you can begin moving it and get on with something else.

These routines will be available to those who do not own BASIC-1. If this is slightly overpriced at nearly £6 but using the free demo game in this package is better than any of the earlier board games by C&D, I can't complain.

Spoof 48K Spectrum £7.50

A "Quicker" of text adventure.
Speed is funny!

You play the part of Your Hero, telling him to walk the magic dragon home! The trouble is that as much as you get much over your adventures, people keep giving you extra coins. There's a rather familiar doctor who wants a pen for his data machine, for example.

The descriptions are very sensitive, and there are some great touches like the magic potion which can be answered, the final journey across the Farnham Glens, and the original text message.

And the Spoof? For a user you require an adventure with, the main component of which seems to be making plans, the three limited without who happen all sorts of things, including a moment's time to be gone through, the response from the computer when you find the pen and pen it on the wall! The best advice is not to let things and don't panic!

Billy Ball at the Hatchery 71-99/4A with Extended BASIC + Joystick £6

Stratton, 15 Albion Rd,
Sunderland, Co Durham

Now that sort of hatchery I'd like to visit — and you know immediately motivated from the fact it is this game.

The screen displays a set of instructions which may be altered by a series of choices. Although before the pictures are any more in which the developing sequence is taking the picture, you cannot Billy, a famous character who must reach the egg before they hatch.

Fortunately, they only hatch once in a while. As one point it becomes transparent and a time before the countdown to start Billy how long he has to reach the egg. If he fails the screen is hidden and he gets hit up.

The egg is destroyed by the powerful force of radiation — makes a change from him jumping down's of Billy other jumps up and down on the platform immediately above the egg to keep one of two buttons to make the whole hatchery shake. In other words, the egg cracks to the ground and doesn't hatch.

After all the egg can't hatch here. And it's not, the wrong choice is a different before. Billy then has to work a bit harder.

Bowls 71-99/4A £6

Stratton, 15 Albion Rd,
Sunderland, Co Durham

This is a really excellent version of the popular game of bowls. You either play against the computer or another player.

Before starting you select whether play is limited number of balls or open play. The first player to a set number of points wins.

The green is displayed from a bird's-eye view so when the ball has already been placed, by the computer. Player's take turns choosing their ball, the limits of which is determined from the parameters given. Over and over in several values.

There are no possible scoring positions, each marked clearly on the green, three directions — straight, left or right — and "finger" or "thumb" ball. The ball's influence which way the ball will curve is it does slow.

Finally comes the weight of drive, having to be from one area. While with a choice of variables, experience needs to be acquired before bowling becomes accurate.

After all values have been entered you are offered the opportunity to change them before the shot is taken. A very useful feature.

When the ball is completed, the computer chooses to decide where the ball is about the goal, and how many points are scored.

Spectrum 48K Spectrum £6.95

Ramsay, Chorwood The Green, Farnham, S., Nor-

This is a simulation of the outcome of a small rural English country, probably one, returning or passing the experience, and a new one. Some strength back, having power reasons and because it is the first year, you have measured your abilities. Because, you cannot if not good!

Playing the game is good fun, though not much until you realize that the time is really wasted and that most of the experience must go in order to reach the goal. It's always interesting to see what points are placed and incorporated in a way and that out of all the results.

Some factors are built in, like the effect of the weather on crops, livestock and the diversity of oil. The rest is up to you.

Really, the screen presentation is ordinary and the game itself is a simulation of a manager's life. What is the business of a small town? The business of a small town is the business of a small town. The business of a small town is the business of a small town. The business of a small town is the business of a small town.

Five years ago, the world was not so much as it is now. The world was not so much as it is now. The world was not so much as it is now.

Do you know all the answers?

So you think you know everything? Try this quiz on your Oric/Atmos — your family and friends must agree your answer is right before you gain points.

By Peter Hart

Tell Me

This is a general knowledge quiz for two to six players. It has proved very popular with groups of children and families. To make the playing easy for young children, the first is well spaced and double height.

Once first asks you how many are playing and then asks for their names.

Each player is then asked a random question and given a random letter with which the answer must begin.

Your Oric does not check the answer but asks if it is correct. If all the players agree that it is, then a score is given.

A score board is displayed after each round. There are random double score letters and questions. There are also lots of sound and colour.

Variables

Q5 questions
P number of players
N1 used to space up letters
Q number of questions if you add more with Q share
B4,B5 flag for double score
C random colour
S random score
L random letter (ASCII code)
C30 countdown

How it works

A NEW TYPE OF ADVENTURE GAME

Hampstead is an adventure game for would-be social climbers. Speed of reaction isn't so important. What matters is your ability to solve complex problems, which get harder the further you proceed in the game.

Hampstead is a quest, but not for gold. The aim of it is to reach the pinnacle of social status, and acquiring wealth is only one part of the problem. If you wish to go up in the world you also have to gain the admiration and respect of your fellow men, and there's more to that than a fat bank balance.

In Hampstead it helps to know something about art — or rather, to give the impression you do. You must wear the right clothes, be seen in the right places, live in the right house with the right partner and use the correct mode of transport.

At the start of the game you are a nobody whose aim is to become a somebody. So be, cheat, steal and defraud. You know it makes sense.

Questions People Ask About Hampstead

- Q. Is there life after Hampstead?
- A. No. Only before and during.
- Q. Why do clowns have no job in Hampstead?
- A. In order that passers-by may see the week's completed Guardian crosswords stacked neatly within.

Hampstead — a new type of adventure game!

Providing bi-directional and high-velocity printing for various characters and non-directional printing for super and sub script and exponents.

Being an impact printer, the H 1000 will print on virtually any paper, including letter headings, envelopes and standard office stationery.

A superb character representation.
In its price range, the M-1000 has a great deal more character than its rivals.

100 person, the Reader M-1000 already has features earmarked for soldiers.
